Description	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. The facilitator will show the Storyteller dices to the participants, and will provide an example on how to use them. 2. In order to understand how they work, the whole group will do an example round, in which one by one the participants throw a dice and create a story all together. 3. The participants will be divided into groups of 3. Inside the groups, one of them will be in charge of throwing the dices. As the participant throws the dices, they will invent a story related to the drawings in the Storyteller dices. 4. The other 2 participants in the group will interpret the story and play it, using only their bodies and producing sounds. 5. The group will continue developing the story until they run out of dices, then they will invent an ending.
Guidelines for the facilitator	It is very important to provide a good first example so that all the participants can understand the activity and how to use the dices. In addition, it will make them feel less intimidated by the activity and create a safe environment for them to be creative.
Summary	The participants, divided into groups, invent stories and create scenes with the Storyteller dices .
